This Is PRINCETON

PLANS FOR THE FUTURE
Joint Library to Be Formed.
Things are humming at Princeton Public Library these days as staff and board members get ready for the change-over to a joint library as approved by the voters in the last election. The change will not go into effect until January 1, but in the meantime reorganization plans are being made by members of the present Library Board, the Borough Council and the Township Committee.

The main change will be administrative, since the library referendum provided for the creation of a joint library board. This means that the present board setup of four Borough residents and one Township resident, plus Borough Mayor Raymond F. Male and Borough Schools Superintendent Chester R. Stroup, will be replaced by a 10-man board consisting of three Borough residents and three Township residents, plus both mayors and both school superintendents.

Present board members are Mrs. Roger H. McDonough, Walter B. Jefferson, Jr., G. Vinton Duffield and Lee H. Bristol, Jr., all Borough residents, and James S. Thompson, Township resident.
Members of the new board will not be appointed by the two mayors until January, following the reorganization meetings of the two municipalities.

No policy decisions will be made until the new board is appointed, but present board members, together with Borough and Township officials, are working out details of necessary changes in administrative procedures. Included will be some changes in financial arrangements, since all library expenses will be in one budget in the future. In the past, some expenses have been listed in the budget and others, such as engineer's service and insurance, have been incorporated in the overall Borough budget.

No Tax Increase Seen. No increase in taxes is expected at the present time, since there are no immediate plans for any changes or improvements. In practice, the library has been functioning as a joint service for many years, and the Township has been sharing operation costs since 1953.

Actually, the price of library service in the Township is expected to go down next year. This year the Township paid $30,322 as its share of Princeton Library's expenses and $15,611 to the Mercer County Library. Next year the Township will withdraw from the County Library, eliminating this expense entirely.

The Township's share of local library expenses next year will probably be about the same as this year, and the only known added expense to date will be $2,500 for the first of five payments establishing joint ownership. The combination adds up to about $13,000 less than this year's total costs.

This entire amount may not be saved, however, since the new joint library will have the responsibility of replacing the services provided for the Township by the Mercer County Library. These included bookmobile service and the use of schoolroom book collections, and it is likely that the new joint library will inaugurate some kind of extension service to replace the bookmobile, as well as establishing a book collection for distribution to schoolrooms.

Enthusiasm Plus. For the present, just about everyone connected with library is fairly bouncing with enthusiasm over the results of the referendum. The Borough voted 2,670 to 504 in favor of the proposition, while in the Township the vote was 3,779 to 350.

Miss Margaretta Barr, library director, said the members of the library board and staff are particularly grateful to the members of the Citizens' Committee for the Public Library, headed by Mrs.
A. L. Keiser, Jr., who worked for weeks to spread information about the referendum. "We really feel that much of the success of the referendum was due to the work of this committee," Miss Barr said.

She added that everybody at the library was tremendously encouraged that the referendum received such a large favorable vote. "This was the first time the public had a chance to express its opinion," she said, "and it makes us feel awfully good to know that everyone is backing our concern for improving library service."
Such a large vote certainly was an indication of the public's interest in the library. It was also another link in the continuing chain of events which show the interest Princeton residents have in the growth of their community.

A TOY FOR A CHILD
Groups Ask Contributions. Boys and girls who might not otherwise have toys for Christmas will benefit from the "Santa's Workshop" activities planned by two Princeton organizations.

The Community Service Committee of the Unitarian Church, working with welfare departments of Borough and Township, is also collecting toys, books and games for distribution to needy children. These toys may be taken to the University Cleaners, or they will be picked up by University Cleaners' trucks after a phone call to WA 4-3123. This is the fifth year that the cleaning establishment has served as a clearing house for toys.

Deadline for the Unitarian-University Cleaners drive is December 8, and donors are asked, if possible, to contribute toys that are useable or new.

Girls in the Y-Teen Senior High Club are asking for contributions of toys which they can repair with simple carpentry, sewing or painting. Toys may be delivered to the YM-YWCA building on Avalon Place.

ROUNDUP
One of the Township's worst grass-and-brush fires burst into flame in the Brookstone area Friday around 5 p.m. and burned through woods and fields until 11:35 p.m. Over 20 firemen and three pieces of apparatus battled the blaze. . . Lesser fires were reported elsewhere this week: A pair of plastic eyeglasses on top of a hot space heater caused a fire at the home of William Gray, 421-C Butler and something—presumably a cigarette—burned out the whole front seat of a car belonging to Mario di Donato, 61 Leigh Avenue.
The memory of Billie D. Ellis, Township policeman who drowned while trying to save two youths, will be commemorated by a plaque to be dedicated Monday night at Tonship Hall. . . The bronze memorial will hang in the main lobby just outside police headquarters and it will read, "In memory of Billie D. Ellis who died courageously in the service of Princeton Township on August 19, 1955."

Mr. Frederickson lost a 35 mm. camera and case, valued at $50.

Borough Police Chief Raymond F. Mondone says this is a good record compared to last year, when some ten cars were picked over during the Dartmouth week-end.

Old-timers in Princeton say they used to ice-skate on Lake Carnegie to work up an appetite for Thanksgiving dinner. . . not lately, though. . . temperatures for the past week have hung lazily in the 60's, with a high for the week of 69 recorded last Wednesday, and an unprecedented sunny 54 recorded on Saturday, traditionally a day of Dartmouth snow, sleet or hurricane. . . ### PARKING YARD AT LAST?

Council Takes First Steps. A recommendation that the Borough of Princeton acquire land for the old-proposed Vandeventer-Park Place parking yard was presented Tuesday to the Borough Council by the Committee on the Future of Princeton.

Councilman Dan D. Coyle, chairman of the committee, made the recommendation and estimated that it would cost about $50,000 to put such a parking yard into operation. Following the meeting, Council retired to executive session to consider the recommendation and discuss long-range plans for acquiring the land. A further report will be made at the Council's December 13 meeting.

In a hearing conducted before the regular session, Council voted to suspend for five days the liquor license of Stephen Eory, owner of Varsity Liquors, 234 Nassau Street.

Mr. Eory was charged with selling alcoholic beverages to a minor. The suspension will take effect Monday, November 29.

Mayor Raymond F. Male reported that he has discussed introducing an ordinance limiting the weight of vehicles on Washington Road with officials of surrounding municipalities. Mayor Male said, however, that he would discuss the matter with truckers who might be affected by such an ordinance before taking further action.

Borough Attorney John F. McCarthy reported that Council could take no further action on

EVERYBODY'S HAPPY: General feeling of enthusiasm for new joint Borough-Township management of Princeton Public Library is reflected in faces of both staff members and book borrowers. approval given Princeton University by the Zoning Board to construct a power substation on Charlton Street. He said that the one property owner who might have reason to protest is still recovering from illness and unable to receive visitors.

Councilman Coyle urged Council members to consider problems arising from the fact that New Year's Eve falls on a Saturday this year. He pointed out that taverns are customarily granted permission to remain open until 4 a.m. on New Year's Eve, but added that remaining open during the early hours of Sunday morning might pose certain questions. The matter will be discussed more fully at the December Council meeting.

Councilman Coyle, chairman of the police committee, also recommended a crackdown on persons operating bicycles at night without proper lighting equipment. He cited several cases in which accidents were only luckily avoided.

MRS. MERSHON LEAVING

Resigns School Post. The resignation of Mrs. Helen Mershon as a teacher at Nassau Street School was announced by Borough Schools Superintendent Chester R. Stroup at Tuesday's meeting of the Borough Board of Education. Mr. Stroup said that Mrs. Mershon will move to Detroit but hopes to postpone her departure until Christmas vacation begins.

Named to replace Mrs. Mershon effective January 1, 1961, was Theodore Hammond. Mr. Hammond received his B. A. in psychology from Upsala College and is currently studying at Trenton State Teachers College and teaching the fourth grade at St. Joseph's School, Carteret, N. J.

A report on last year's study of American junior high schools by James B. Conant was given by Mr. Stroup. He said that Princeton Borough was among the 90 school systems studied for the report and stated that Princeton "stacks up pretty well on all scores" in comparison with the recommendations of the report.

There are only two areas where Princeton Borough's sixth, seventh and eighth grades fail to meet the Conant report's recommendations, Mr. Stroup said. One is guidance and testing and the other is library facilities. He added that immediate improvements were contemplated for both these areas.

Fire Loss of $18,537. It was reported that the fire last May 9 at Witherspoon School had resulted in a total loss of $18,537.08. This included $18,832.86 for damage to the building, less $1,883.28 for 10 per cent depreciation; $1,520.40 for contents and $67.10 for extinguishers.

It was announced that the annual PHS Christmas concert will be held Monday, December 19. The December meeting of the board will be held the following day, Tuesday, December 20, one week earlier than usual, because of the Christmas vacation.

RECOUNT IN MERCER

Ballots Being Re-checked. Mercer is one of five New Jersey counties selected by state Republicans for a ballot re-count which they hope will wipe out the 21,833-vote edge that president-elect John F. Kennedy holds over Vice-President Richard M. Nixon in New Jersey. Kennedy carried Mercer by 27,103.

The re-count started Tuesday after Superior Court Judge Frank J. Kingfield signed an order requested by Jack Silverstein, GOP state committeeman. The tally is scheduled to take about three days.

Voting machines in Ewing, Lawrence and East Windsor Townships will be checked first so that the county can simultaneously—Continued on Page 4 ously settle the recount for municipal offices in those districts and the recount in the Presidential race. After all county voting machines have been checked, the County Board of Elections will examine the absentee military and civilian ballots.

Dr. Charles R. Erdman, Jr., state Republican chairman, said that the party hopes to uncover numerical errors in voting machine totals. There have been no charges of fraud or voting irregularities.

Other counties chosen for the re-count are Essex, Camden, Middlesex and Passaic. Although New Jersey is one of seven states which Republicans have said they would subject to a "close, hard look," recounts have actually been undertaken only in New Jersey and Illinois.

COOPERATION ON SEWERS?

Township Considers. Township Committee explored on Monday night the possibility of asking the Joint Sewer Operating Committee to take over the direction of the sewer surveys now being made of Princeton Township by the engineering consulting firm of Buck, Siefert and Yost.

Committeeman John Mount, reporting on a conference which he and Township engineer James Breth had with members of the firm, pointed out that the Joint Committee is already operating the Township sewer system and would have to finance any expansion of the sewer plant required by implementation of the Township's sewer master plan.

"We sent copies of our sewer master plan to the Operating Committee, the Borough Council and Borough Planning Board," said

The Changing Scene

*The goose that flies
Across the moon
May be upon
A platter soon.*

—HUNT N. SEAZIN

The season was here, all right, but very little frost and chill winds to go with it. In fact, the warm temperatures have burst a cherry tree into bloom on Springdale's 18th hole and a forsythia is flowering near the Pennsylvania Railroad Station.

Thanksgiving weekend will continue to bring temperatures above normal, the Man reported. In fact, the long-range forecast through mid-December is for warmer (and drier) weather than is usual for late fall.

Mr. Mount, "but we haven't had any reaction from them yet."

Mr. Mount said that the discussion with Buck, Siefert and Yost, which was held to explore ways in which the firm could help start the master plan on its way, centered around four "priority" problems: a sewer along the Great Road to include Tenacre and Ridgeview; Hillside Avenue (including the possibility of tying into Montgomery Township lines); assessment for the Brookstone force main and expansion of the sewer plant itself.

"Our discussions were also concerned with grand policy, not just with Township problems," said Mr. Mount, "and that's why we suggest asking the Sewer Operating Committee to direct the work. We would pay for studies relevant to Township problems, and our share of the over-all expense."

Committeeman Thomas P. Cook said that he would call members of the Sewer operating Committee to a meeting. The Committee is composed of representatives from the Borough, the Township and Princeton University.

Fire Code Amended. Committee passed an amended fire code after a lengthy legal discussion with George Webster of the New Jersey Liquified Petroleum Gas Association, who said that the new code's prohibition of the bulk storage of liquid petroleum gas (bottled cooking and heating gas) anywhere in the Township was a "complete violation" of state law.

Mr. Webster did not pinpoint the exact section of the law violated by the code, even under sharp questioning by Gordon Griffin, Township attorney. However, a representative of the State Police explained the police regulations require monthly inspections of all domestically-owned tanks of bottled gas. It was also pointed out by Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman and other Committeemen, that the Township could restrict the storage of gas through application of the zoning ordinance.

Taking cognizance of these two factors, Committee amended out of the new fire code ordinance all references to liquid petroleum gas and passed the ordinance.

Committee took under advisement its new brush-weed-debris control ordinance following a lengthy protest by William Cherry, 24 Dempsey Avenue, who said that the penalty of a $200 fine plus 90 days in jail for each day of violation was too severe.

Mr. Griffin pointed out that fine and jail sentence were both maximums, and that stiff penalties were needed to make recalcitrants comply. Mr. Cook suggested that possibly the ordinance put too much power into the hands of police chief or health officer, and suggested that some provision for appeal should be added to the ordinance. With these considerations in mind, the ordinance was tabled, and will be brought up again at next Monday's meeting.

Committee passed the ordinance appropriating $7,500 for a landscape engineering firm to plan the 27 acres of Community Gardens earmarked for public recreation and administration.

News Of The THEATRES

GIELGUD TO RETURN

In "Ages" Sequel, Sir John Gielgud will return to McCarter Theatre on Friday, December 16, with "Love and Death," the sequel to his original Shakespearean evening, "Ages of Man." Tickets for the single performance under the sponsorship of C-K Productions, will go on sale Monday at the Princeton University Store or may be ordered by mail from Box 591, Princeton. Prices are $5.50, $4.40, $3.30 and $2.20.

"Love and Death" will include selections from Sir John's Columbia record, "One Man in His Time," which has been billed as Part Two of Shakespeare's "Ages of Man." The New York "Times" has characterized Sir John's presentation as containing "such subtlety and suppleness that the listener feels that for once, no barrier, no obstacle exists between him and Shakespeare. The art of communication can go no farther."

TRAGEDY BECOMES FARCE

In Current Intime Production. For its second offering of the season Theatre Intime has taken Christopher Marlowe's tragedy, "The Jew of Malta," and attempted to transform it into a broad farce. The experiment is only partially successful, with the play sometimes seeming to go in two directions at once. Still, it is an interesting attempt and the result is an entertaining, if not rollicking, production.

The show, which opened last Thursday, is taking a break over the Thanksgiving holiday and then will be presented again Thursday, Friday and Saturday, December 1, 2 and 3. Performances are at 8:30 p.m. at Murray Theatre and tickets may be bought at the University Store or may be reserved by calling the box office, WAL-nut 4-3539.

The comic effect is primarily created by the overplaying of the main characters, principally Barabas, the Jew of Malta; his slave, Ithamore, and the two friars, Jacomo and Barnadine. Ralph Esmerian as Barabas is overwhelmingly wily and grasping. Mr. Esmerian is a talented actor with a gift for gestures and timing, who manages to make several long monologues both clear and interesting. He also does a good job of turning a predatory character into one which is rather comic and futile.

Bill Harmon as Ithamore, the unprincipled and unreliable slave, has the most refreshing stage presence of any of the large cast. He bounds about with the unrestrained enthusiasm of a cheerleader at a football game, apparently having a wonderful time and helping the audience to have one, too.

Friars Amusing. The two mealy-mouthed stupid friars are amusingly portrayed by David Cain and Thomas Dillingham. They are particularly good in the scene in which they chorus their protests of Barabas' planned murder of his daughter's two lovers, as well as when they light each other over which of them shall get Barabas and his money to join his order.

The others in the cast are generally convincing, particularly Frank Carr as Ferneze, the governor of Malta; Frances Keene as Barabas' daughter, Abigail; Betty Fussell as the courtesan, Bellamira, and Esther Usiskin in the dual roles of the abbess and Katherine. Virtually all these parts are played straight, which is one of the reasons the play occasionally reverts from farce to tragedy. Mr. Carr, incidentally, seems more at home in the Elizabethan drama than anyone else, and his deep, full voice is a welcome addition.

The show was directed by H. Montgomery Davis and produced by Paul Glickler, Alan Weinstein, who designed the set, has taken a tip from the recent APA shows at McCarter and created a simple background which is both attractive and suitable for all scenes. The costumes by Shirley Rennie, although standard for this type of show, are gay and colorful, and Christina Giannini's lighting is imaginative and effective.

THE PLAYHOUSE

Midnight Lace (November 23-29) is a tense, overting little mystery that shows the influence of some of Alfred Hitchcock's less sadistic recent epics: the people involved are improbably attractive (Rex Harrison and Doris Day), the setting is adequately exotic (the fog-hound streets and palatial apartments of London), and the clothes are pretty (according to our count, Miss Day manages 17 costume changes.) Furthermore, the screenplay, insignificant and gimmicky as it is, and the direction by David Miller are frequently hair-raising.

Miss Day is the lovely wife of a successful London businessman (Harrison), and she begins receiving mysterious threats to her life. The atmosphere grows creepier as the threats continue arriving at studied intervals, and in increasingly portentous circumstances. Finally Scotland Yard solves the mystery, and Miss Day is left alive to flash her practiced Pollyanna smile another day. So much for the plot, Harrison performs with his usual suave assurance which is to say that he does his job with enviable skill.

North to Alaska (November 30-December 3). From time to time this department likes to clarify the methods it uses to judge films. Basically, there are four categories (each of which breaks down into several sub-classes too numerous and complicated to consider at this time). The categories are: (Recommended (i.e., switch off 'Huntley and Brinkley and gallop to the theatre); Good (worth the bidding price of admission); Passable (if you've already read 'Felt: Medicine' and you can't find a 'outh for bridge, it's better than staring at the wall); and Sorry, Fellas (it's worse than staring at the wall). "North to Alaska" falls into Category 'three 1' is an attempt to satirize the Western, but the producers made two mistakes. The first was buying the screenplay, which employs all the subtlety of the form it purports to be lampooning. The second was hiring John Wayne for the leading role. Wayne has been unconsciously parodying himself for so long that the difference between his role here and all those that preceded it may escape the notice of all but the most attentive members of the audience.

Among his fellow satirists are Stewart Granger, Ernie Kovacs, Fabian and Capucine (by the way, when can we expect a satire on movie actors who use only one name?) and the plot concerns claim jumping in Alaska, barroom brawls, wild shootings where no one is injured, and prostitutes with 24-carat hearts. It's in CinemaScope and color.

THE GARDEN

The Battle of the Sexes (November 22-26) is another funny Peter Sellers vehicle. Others in the cast are Robert Morley and Constance Cummings. Miss Cummings is the efficiency expert for a London firm. She is sent off to Scotland by her bosses, who find her efficiency unbearable and want to get her out of their hair.

En route, she runs into Morley, who has just innerlited the directorship of a Scottish woolen mill. Smitten by her, he hires her to bring modern methods to the old factory.

She goes about her job with a single-minded determination that will bring smiles to the lips of men who have had the unique and invaluable experience of toiling for a woman boss. One of her semi-masculine toilers is Sellers, the meek head of the mill's accounting department. Outraged by her new methods, which are in the process of overturning the comfortable apathy which has carefully been built up by generations of plant workers, Sellers first tries to sabotage her machines and then begins plotting her murder melodramatically.

The film has its moments, most of them provided by Sellers. If for no other reason, it should be patronized just because it is one of the few morsels of satire the movie-makers condescend to toss to us boots these days. Recommended.

Rigoletto (November 28). The Verdi opera is sung by Tito Gobbi and Linda Patughi. Also on the program are the overtures from Nicolai's "Merry Wives of Windsor" and Mozart's "Don Giovanni."

The Entertainer (November 29-December 3) is a bitter, forceful statement about illusion and reality by John Osborne, and a personal triumph for Laurence Olivier. Osborne's screenplay, prepared with the aid of Nigel Kneale, is a strong work, but it suffers from the polemicism and humorlessness that have characterized the dramatist's career. Olivier, however, creates from it one of the most brutally convincing performances ever filmed.

He is Archie Rice, a broken-down, talentless music hall performer (one of Olivier's greatest victories is in his ability to make us believe he is as ill-endowed as Archie Rice has to be). Suffering in the shadow of a famous father, Archie has hypnotized himself into believing that he too is a great star, and he has thereby loosened his hold on all of reality. Brenda De Branzie is affecting as his wife, who imbibes cheap movies and gin in an effort to live with her husband's brazen philandering. Joan Plowright is Archie's daughter. Returning home to try to work out a personal problem, she merely becomes embroiled in the turmoil of her parents, and it is largely through her eyes that the story is seen.

There is no resolution; the film explores the dilemma of its people, but offers no solution. There is nothing inherently wrong with this — we are unjustified in expecting every work of art to answer the questions it raises — but in Osborne's hands the device of "ending in the middle" is peculiarly unsatisfying. The realism throughout is unrelenting and often harsh, and the film is not intended for juveniles. Recommended.

IT'S NEW To Us

MERRY CHRISTMAS

Everything Ship-Shop? Every year, in the weeks between Thanksgiving and Christmas, TOWN TOPICS presents five shopping columns designed to serve you as inventory sheets, arch supports and lamps to light the way as you do your Christmas shopping.

This week, in our first column, we shall tell you about the long-range presents, the things you plan for weeks in advance, either because they are expensive "investment" gifts, or because they take a while to make. In subsequent weeks, we shall write about toys and hobby presents, personal gifts, gifts for the home and finally, the ingredients of the great Christmas feast.

Since last year's Christmas columns, three new shops have come to Princeton, bringing with them a kind of merchandise — if you'll pardon the grossness word — which Princeton has not had before in any abundance, curiously enough. Because of the presence of these three, The Leopard's Head, Gallery 100 and Rina Galleries and The Little Gallery which has been here for some time, Princeton shoppers this year may buy valuable objects d'art and works of art without stepping more than a few feet off Nassau Street.

At The Little Gallery on Palmer Square, Dudley Morris will continue to show and to offer for sale the subdued tempera landscapes and portraits which have won for him considerable acclaim. His quiet fields and grey autumnal hilltops are highly personal evocations of the world he lives in, and his portraits seem to come more from memory than from life. One of the most memorable portraits is "Gibson Girl," an old woman dressed and coiffed in the style of her youth, with fine, splendid facial bones that show the beauty she once had.

Martin Ries, a completely different kind of artist who works in the same medium, is now showing at Rina Galleries on Charlton Street. A symbolist who has studied his Blake, Ries uses skeletons or skeletal fragments in almost all his works, sometimes envisioning a skeleton as a death symbol, and sometimes as a symbol of truth stripped to essence.

At Gallery 100, woodcuts, photographs and original works of art by such men as Chagall, Shahn, Prestopino, Rouault and Friedlander are available from $400 down to $10. The Gallery is in the rear of the photography and art center at 100 Nassau.

The Little Gallery has, in addition to Dudley Morris, a fine collection of framed original prints from $50 to $300. There is a delightful Renoir, a Rouault from the "Miserere" group, Miro's conception of "Stars and Meteors," and a Braque, among others. Unframed original prints and posters from the studios of Picasso, Miro, Rouault, Friedlander and Dubuffet are about the same price range, but slightly less because they are unframed.

For people who collect in a different period, The Leopard's Head has a romantic landscape, attributed to John Chrome. It's in a period Chippendale frame.

Stocking Stuffers

It's the little things—know what we mean? Something small-scale, charming and the just right size for a Christmas stocking. Consider the bronze Chou cup ($475) or its match mate, the carved jade cup ($500) both out of 18th century China, both available now at The Leopard's Head on Chambers Street. Each is about four inches across.

A bit larger, but still on the small side, is the bronze statue of Kali from 17th or 18th century India. She's at Rina Galleries, and her 20 inch figure has a lovely patina that comes to about $375.

Little Gallery on Palmer Square West has a charming original lithograph by Renoir, a simple and unaffected grouping of mother and children which you may have for $375.

Smallest of all is the Minox Camera at Mall Camera. Said to be the world's smallest and lightest, it is 3 3/4 inches long and weighs 3 1/2 ounces. It comes from 20th century West Germany.

... And in 3-D. If the extra dimension of sculpture appeals to someone on your special list, consider the 14th century Khmer Lopuri Buddha from Siam. The Leopard's Head offers the nine-inch bronze head for $750.

Rina has the perfect companion for a long winter evening. He's a Ming warrior god, $1200, and heavy as a war club. He is dressed in the accoutrements of his trade, with little faces hidden here and there in his garments to ward off evil spirits, but his own face is as serene as though he were Buddha himself.

Eighteenth century Balinese monkey and elephant gods, each 20 inches high, are $125 at Rina. You'll also find in this shop several carved teak wall plaques about a foot square ($60-$100), from the 17th and 18th centuries, and curious wood temple fragment that looks rather like the prow of a ship.

At The Leopard's Head, where fine silver is the "pate maison," you will find a magnificent solid silver platter from the reign of George III and, more recently, the Samuel D. Riddle estate. It's $650, and just the size for your Christmas bear's head.

An unusual pair — unusual because they are found singly more often than in pair — of Queen Anne shagreen boxes are available at The Leopard's Head for — Continued on Page 8

$375 the pair. They are matched knife boxes with their original red silk velvet linings and close plate mounts (silver beaten onto brass.) Here, too, is a gilded silver wine-cooler, vintage 1820, from the atelier of Philip Rundell. Even the nuts and bolts bear the hallmark!

CAN'T LIVE WITHOUT IT?

It? Furniture. Among all the various brands and styles and names at Schwartz Furniture Company in New Brunswick, Tomlinson's "Sophisticate" remains one of the favorites. This year, there are new modular units so that you can put together corner shelves, cupboards, break-fronts and so on, to the limit of your wallet. There are new finishes, too; both old and new pieces, in the "Sophisticate" line come in spice brown and emberglow.

The "Sophisticate" sideboard has two side doors, two long drawers, two square silver drawers and, on top, a hutch with shelves behind three-panel doors. Squares of burl wood make a pleasing checkered effect on the doors. A low chest has three wide silver drawers behind hinged folding doors. Elongated antiqued brass pulls are used on these pieces.

Tomlinson's "Pavane" lines up Romanesque arches on the six paneled doors of its breakfront. This imposing piece of furniture has gathered fabric behind bronze screened doors, and serving trays that slide out and back like the leaf in an office desk.

For citizens of the Colonies, Schwartz presents Cushman's "Colonial," a sideboard in antique maple with glass doors flanked by narrow shelves, nine small spice drawers and enough storage space to hide a dozen Minute Men. In the living-room, there's a Pennsylvania House wing sofa, with three cushions and kick-pleat skirt.

Moderns are served at Schwartz Carroll Place with Drexel's "Parallel," a collection which includes everything you can think of, from a bachelor's chest to a double bed headboard. The lines are fluid and curving, but distinctly modern and clean, without hardware, without scribbles.

Mannings, on the Lawrenceville Road beyond Lawrenceville, likes the Tidewater Collection produced in the Williamsburg tradition by Morganton. One of the pleasantest pieces in this group is the curio cabinet, which comes with glass or wood shelves, and also with lights, if you have curios worthy of the wattage.

For $335, you may have a secretary with Governor Winthrop base, and a choice of tops. The panes are plain glass or, if you prefer, the crown glass that makes the piece more authentic. Letter-writers intimidated by the regal manner of this secretary may prefer a lady's desk in solid cherry, designed with a feminine turn. It comes in several finishes, including a delightfully painted one which would appeal to a young girl.

Ivy Manor, in the Princeton Shopping Center, suggests the Italian Provincial lines sketched out by Henredon. Antique fruit-wood has been finished in stone beige (antique white with gold trim) and is probably just waiting for a mother who's redecorating a daughter's room.

While in the dining-room—cherry pieces done in a patina finish, simple lines. And in the living-room, Henredon's upholstered pieces, including sofas and chairs covered with such fabrics as blue-green damask or a beige that ought to be called champagne and probably is.

Cumberland Cherry, from Maryland, offers reproductions which reflect the design and workmanship of the early cabinet makers of the middle-Atlantic states. If you buy a Cumberland piece, you may choose your own hardware from a collection of top brass.

If it's a rug you're after, The Rug Mart is excited about the 20 decorator shades available in James Lees' 501 DuPont nylon. Sounds like some kind of computer to us, but no, it's a carpet. The old 501 appears again in a Bigelow line which comes in 12 and 15 foot widths.

Rina Galleries, of all places, has an alpaca rug in the natural wooly creamness of the alpaca himself. It's about five by six feet, with an uneven shagginess that is immensely inviting. Too bad to put it on the floor; we suggest a couch.

Something New. The front part of Nassau Interiors has been pushed back, opened up and rearranged so that now a whole room is visible to buyer and browser. Here you'll find a 3-cushion traditional couch 94 inches long, $430, in a trapunto chintz cover over spring down. It goes with Craftique's mahogany breakfast, a compact, commodious piece of storage space for the 18th century dining room.

The contemporary room will be more at home with a new line of cabinets and sectional bookcases made of ash with a teak finish. The lines are absolutely foursquare, even to the panelling on the doors, and the units are so square that stacking and rearranging may be done easily. There are vertical partitions in the bookcases, by the way, which will certainly invite the record collectors in town.

chairman of the New Buildings Committee, presented to the Board Thursday night the first estimates of possible costs for the new 24-classroom Township school in Community Gardens.

Mr. Pearson told the Board that the over-all estimate of $1,300,000 represented roughly $18.50 a square foot for 48,500 square feet, plus a sum slightly under $100,000 for non-building costs as kitchen equipment, architects' fees and so on.

Board member Leonard
Hymmerling said that by December 15, the Board would know the total cost of the new school "within five or six percent." He also said that the Board and the Citizens Advisory Committee wanted, not a "minimum" school, but a
"medium" school.

"By this I mean no frills, but a good-looking, substantial school that's a credit to the community," explained Mr. Hymmerling. "This school will have a full, closed gym, because it will be part of the Community Gardens recreation plan, classrooms with ceilings, permanent outside finish, asbestos terraflex floors, more lavatory facilities than other schools have (because they will be shared by Community Gardens), but absolutely no waste space."

Classrooms in the new building will be 856 square feet, not 900 as originally discussed, and the auditorium will seat 300. Flexible partitions for second-floor sixth grade classrooms are under consideration, so that all sixth-graders can meet together, if desirable.

A public hearing on the school will be held in mid-January and the vote on the school bond issue will come early in February.
Next Tuesday at 8 p.m. at Riverside School, Board members will discuss before a PTA meeting the general philosophy behind the plans for a new school, what the Board considers in drawing up plans and the ground work that must be done—population surveys, and so on—before the architect is told to proceed.

Dr. William Purcell, superintendent of Township Schools, told the Board that Mrs. Virginia Switten, music teacher who was seriously injured in an automobile accident in August, will be back in school after the Christmas holidays.

The Board expressed its concern about vandalism in Littlebrook and Riverside Schools (outside lights broken, mud in vent pipes, etc.) and decided to discuss the problem with P.T.A.

Dr. Elmer W. Engstrom, senior executive vice-president of RCA, cited him as a guiding force in the successful installation of the Space Center.

A native of Schenectady, Mr. Zemke began his career with the General Electric Corporation and joined RCA in 1929. In 1946, he transferred to the David Sarnoff Research Center in Princeton where he held a number of executive positions prior to the formation of the Astro-Electronics Division two years ago.

WHAT'S ON THE AGENDA?

For Board of Health. Moved back a week by the Thanksgiving holiday, the Princeton Board of Health will meet next Thursday at 8 p.m. in Township Hall to hear recommendations presented by the Board of Plumber Examiners and the special plumbing board regarding the Township's plumbing code.

The Board will also review Our Lady of Princeton's request for an extension of their facilities. It will discuss with Herman A. Lavan, Hamilton Township Health Officer, any provisions of the Hamilton Housing Code which might be incorporated into a future Princeton Township Housing Code.

ARTIST'S WORK EXHIBITED

At Wellesley College. The wife of the sculptor, Joseph Brown, Mrs. Gwyneth K. Brown, of 34 Edwards Place, is having an exhibit of charcoal drawings at Wellesley College. First displayed November 15, the exhibit will run through the end of the month.

Mrs. Brown's work, entitled "Drawings about Jane Adams," has previously been shown at Cornell University and Smith College. Wellesley has been celebrating the centennial of Jane Adams.

CYCLIST FINED THIRICE

Charged With Five Violations. In traffic court, Frederic W. Darke, 18, of 61 Laurel Road pleaded guilty to four of five traffic violations he was accused of committing while operating a motorcycle. Magistrate Theodore T. Tams Jr. dismissed one of the charges and waived the fine in another.

Darke was fined $25 for driving without a license, another $25 for using improper license plates; and $10 for having no tail light on his motorcycle. A charge of discharging a passenger in the middle of the roadway was dismissed. Magistrate Tams also waived a fine when Darke admitted he did not register the bill.

RUSSIAN CLASS POPULAR

With PIIS Students. Students in the new Russian class at Princeton High School have already learned to say "nyet" as fluently as any members of the Russian delegation to the United Nations, but there the resemblance ends. Aside from the fact they are very representative American boys and girls, they lack one privilege of the Russian delegation — they can't just get up and walk out of the class if they decide they don't like it! Judging from their behavior in class, however, none of the students wants to walk out. They are all having too good a time pioneering in the first Russian course ever offered at Princeton High.

"I think they're surprised that Russian isn't as complicated as they expected," said Ronald Gendaszek, class instructor. In some ways, he explained, Russian is easier than other languages. For instance, the verbs have only three tenses, as compared to the 14 tenses of French verbs. And there are a few words which sound almost the same in Russian as they do in English, such as "radio," "chocolate" and "basketball."

After their first few months of instruction, the students had learned the Cyrillic alphabet and were able to write in Russian on the blackboard as well as to read in Russian from a textbook. They could speak about 250 Russian words and phrases, enough so that Mr. Gendaszek, conducting the class in Russian, was easily understood.

Speaks Four Languages. Mr. Gendaszek, who was born in Philadelphia, is of Polish descent and grew up speaking both English and Polish. Since Polish is closely related to Russian, it was not difficult for him to acquire that as a third language. He is also fluent in French and teaches both French and Russian at Princeton High.

A graduate of La Salle College, Philadelphia, Mr. Gendaszek has done graduate work at Laval University in Quebec and at Villanova (Pa.) University. He has travelled widely in Europe and has taught French in French secondary schools. Last Summer he studied at the Institute of Languages and Linguistics of the Foreign Service School at Georgetown University in Washington.

Frank Soda, chairman of the language department at Princeton High, said that the decision to include Russian in the curriculum was made for two reasons. In the first place, adding another language to the PHS program is in line with the emphasis on study of all modern languages advocated by the recent National Education Defense Act. Secondly, world affairs today are making it increasingly important for Americans to know how to speak Russian.

"If we are to deal with the Russians, we should be able to communicate with them," Mr. Soda said. "Our students will be better able to serve the government in offices abroad, or in the armed forces, if they can speak Russian."

Help Break Iron Curtain. American tourists who can speak Russian, he said, can help to break down the Iron Curtain by telling Russians what the United States is really like. And students who go on to college will be able to make use of source material written in Russian which would otherwise be inaccessible.

Mr. Gendaszek added that Russian is also a worthwhile language in terms of the culture it represents. "Russia has a rich historical background and some of the finest literature in the world," he said. "It is this traditional Russian culture which we are emphasizing in our course."

The PHS course begins with the fundamentals of grammar and, when these are mastered, will move on to a study of history, geography and literature. Supplementing the text books are Russian films and records, and plans are now underway for the students to prepare a Russian dance for inclusion in the language festival at the end of the school year.

As in the other language courses at Princeton High, students learn accurate pronunciation of the language by listening to pre-recorded tapes in the new language laboratory. The laboratory, partially financed by the Federal Government through the National Education Defense Act, consists of a group of booths, each equipped with a tape recorder, earphones and a microphone.

Tapes Tell The Tale. The students listen to correctly pronounced phrases in the foreign language and then repeat the phrases themselves. They then play back the tape and can hear how their pronunciation compares with the original.

The sounds of one's own voice speaking in such strange accents is fascinating, and this may be one reason why the students are having such fun learning Russian. When asked where he lives, a student in this class can reply with something that sounds like "Princetonya," and what could be more intriguing than that?

ROBINSON NAMED

To Head YMCA Camps. Edward W. Robinson, director of a day camp and recreational center for the White Plains, N.Y., YMCA, will become director of the central New Jersey YMCA camps on December 1.

Ralph S. Mason, president of the board of trustees of the central New Jersey YMCA camps, announced Mr. Robinson's appointment this week. The new director is a veteran of 15 years experience in YMCA youth work.

MEN, IF THIS BE LOGIC MAKE THE MOST OF IT: The replies of this trio of Princeton High School sophomores would suggest that the belief that men are more logical than women is something that is drummed into the female mind at an early age. Anita Van Derschaaf, Geannie Sculerati, and Joanne Luther all agree that the male animal is more logical than his counterpart. (Staff Photo.)

Question of the Week

Question: As you see it, are men more logical than women?
Where asked: Nassau Street.

Alex DeSantis, 36 Wiggins Street, graduate student: Men are traditionally trained to be more logical and women are traditionally considered to be more emotional but I think it is a question of training rather than something natural. Men aren't naturally more logical but what they have to do in life makes them so. Although women aren't more logical than men they are more emotional.

Anita Van Derschaaf, N. Post Road, sophomore at Princeton High School: I think men are, because they have all the high offices and that sort of proves it. Also, they aren't so emotional.

Geannie Sculerati, 162 Snowden Lane, sophomore at Princeton High School: Men are more logical because a woman will inject her personal opinion into her decisions while a man will make his, basically, on information available. And men have better business heads.

Joanne Luther, Hightstown Road, Princeton Junction, sophomore at Princeton High School: I think men are, because they think things out better and are clearer-minded. Men also have responsibilities which force them to be more logical. Women are too emotional.

John Dunne, 90 Nassau Street, cost analyst: Women are more logical when men aren't logical, and men are more logical most of the time, but they get more illogical as women get illogical.

Mrs. Jeannette Barrows, W. Broad Street, Hopewell, housewife: I think it depends on what the problem is. I feel women are more logical on questions concerning themselves. They are more intuitive, which can often tell them what a man's logic will not.

William Fuerstenau, Princeton Theological Seminary, student: From my experiences with my wife, I'd say men are more logical than women.

Mrs. C. Stanley Green, 2 Laurel Road, housewife: I think men are lots more logical than women. They approach problems with a lot less emotion.

William Monahan, Griggstown, owner-artist of Dolce Studio: Women are much more logical when a particular problem affects them indirectly, such as one pertaining to family life, but when a problem affects them personally, they tend to become overdramatic and illogical. Men works just the opposite. He has much more presence of mind concerning personal problems than he does in areas that involve other people and foreign situations. I think a woman would make a much better president than a man, as this difference would extend world-wide.

Mrs. John H. Lacey, 162 Spruce Street, housewife: I think the answer to that is that some men are more logical than some women.

Charles F. Cook Jr., Taylorsville Road, Yardley: I'd say men, because they are much more consistent. Women say one thing one minute and something else the next. They're too scatterbrained.

Mrs. Margaret Dell, London, England, writer: I don't think you can make a hard and fast rule about it but I'd say a higher proportion of men are more logical. More men than women are breadwinners and they have to be more logical. As more women enter business and commerce, it will be 50-50. You aren't born logical; I think it's all a matter of training.

Sherwood Smith, 73 Westcott Road, graduate of Middlebury College, Vermont: I have always felt men are. Women tend to react according to their emotions.

Mrs. Robert VanVranken, Jr., 75 1/2 Harrison Street, housewife: I think men are. From past experiences, I have know more logical men than women.

Walter Tadlock, 23 Jackson Street, retired waiter: Truthfully, I think men are. I feel men are more trustworthy and more stable than women.

Miss Katherine F. Lenroot, 131 Patton Avenue, retired former chief of U.S. Children's Bureau in Washington, D.C.: I think it depends on the person rather than sex.

It's New To Us

Another impressive addition to Nassau Interiors' inventory is a wing chair, $166, in almost any fabric you choose. This is a formal gentleman of a chair, not a cozy housewife chair.

Something Old. A serpentine mahogany chest from 18th century New England is now making itself at home at The Leopard's Head. It has four drawers, graduating in depth, and simple brass drop handles. Price tag says $465.

The grandfather's clock in this shop is red walnut, a Pennsylvania clock dating from 1740 or 1750, with narrow waist, pierced bracket feet, shell on door, quarter columns and a serene fruit-and-birds face with a white background. Pretend it's an heirloom, for $750. With it, you'll want the Philadelphia dish-top, bird-cage, ball and claw-foot table. If the description sounds both cryptic and esoteric, go to the Leopard and have a look.

A hanging cupboard, Sheraton in style, is made of English mahogany inlaid with something that looks like a tiger's striped tail. It still has the original glass—which is more than some of us can say—and it has never been "restored." You may hang it on the wall or stand it on a table. Price is $285.

In the Leopard's Oriental department is a four-panel screen with a Chinese wedding scene painted in silk and carefully attached to each panel. The colors combine gaiety and softness in a

To Make . . .

For women who like to sew for Christmas, there are three especially exciting and unusual things to make, right now while the needle's hot.

A Humpty Dumpty, 12 or 20 inches tall, made from the Vogue pattern at The Fabric Shop on Chambers Street, and fashioned from whatever felt, flannel or calico you happen to fancy. Stuff him like a deviled egg and watch a little girl's arms go around his 49 (or 31) inch girth.

A splendid gown from the emerald and gold Indian Sari ($50) at Rina Galleries on Charlton Street. It's six yards long, about 44 inches wide, woven with a deep gold border and a regular pattern of minute golden ovals. Just be careful with those scissors.

A black sheath from the 45-inch-wide taffeta at Gretchen's Fabrics, Route 130. The fabric alternates one-inch strips of shirred fabric with narrow bands of black lace, and it is backed with plain black taffeta, so that no lining is necessary.

delightful marriage, and the antiqued silver frame does its job nicely. Price is $190.

On block over, at The Silver Shop on Palmer Square, there is a Chinese Chippendale china cupboard, all fine lines and glass, with a gallery around the top, three shelves behind its expanse of glass, and a light, so your silver and china can gleam against the sage-green brocade back. There is also a wall mirror in the Chippendale style, with broken pediment top and golden bell-flowers down each side. It's $75.

If you have a fine old platter that is no longer being used for fine old turkeys, The Silver Shop would like to convert it for you into a small end-table, as it has converted an ironstone platter in Japanese blue, rust and red. It fits into the top of a custom-made mahogany stand, fashioned like firestools.

A Victorian card-table, solid mahogany top, has gently serpentine sides with rounded corners, and a substantial lyre base. The Silver Shop prices it at $85. On a smaller scale, here's a delicate little coffee table, 27 by 19 inches, and 19 inches off the floor. It's oval, made of Circasian walnut with slender little gate legs to hold its leaves.

HURRY!

Time to Make. Whether your needle is for knitting or sewing, you'd better get it out and put it to work, because Christmas is just a stitch away.

Gretchen's Fabric Shop, out the Hightstown Road and then right on Route 130, spills out a kaleidoscope of rustling silks, taffetas, chiffons and velvets for holiday dresses, for holiday gifts.

Pure silk brocades, 48 inches wide, come in iridescent shades of royal and kelly green (together, in one brocade), or in subtleties like the design of parrot tulips in charcoal on black. Peau de soie is woven in solid colors, like a soft emerald, brilliant kelly, wine, copper or purple.

Printed silk chiffon might be the red paisley, a garden of royal blue, or a jungle of green. Try it over a different color and see how the chiffon changes its character. One of the best of the cheer fabrics is the champagne-colored silk or anza with a deep border of gold coin dots and lines, and a pattern of scattered gold coins. Gold chiffon, all gold, has a pattern of emerald tulips. This chiffon, by the way, has no metallic odor and will not tarnish.)

A bolt of black chantilly lace,

36 inches wide, probably won't be in stock long. Wear it over copper satin, and see what happens.

For the trimmings, Gretchen's has sheared beaver, taped and ready to sew, and white, brown or black lapin ascots. If you're sewing for a gift, look over the pure silk print, 27 inches wide, just made for vests, stoles, scarfs or hats. One pattern is black with flour de lis, another is taupe with red-winged blackbirds.

This shop will help you with sewing problems, will fit the garments you make and help you take up a hem.

The Knitting Shop on Tulane Street — we're back in Princeton — has needlepoint kits to make for Christmas. There are all kinds of pictures to choose from, ranging from folksy scenes of hearth and rocker, to birds and flowers.

Jiffy sweater kits come in mother-daughter sizes. The sweater is a useful cable cardigan with three-quarter sleeves. Children's sweaters, in kit, are red and white and blue, with various arrangements of stripes to make different styles. For daughter, if she's old enough, knit a Paris Hat (cloche) with matching turtle-neck dickey. The yarn is white, the style a good thick rib—you can knit it before you can say "cloche!" A smaller daughter will welcome Monty the Mule, a puppet mitten which is only $1.

Christmas production might begin with one of three sock kits, to knit, or with the gusset sock — Continued on Page 17 to sew (you can get more into a gusset sock, see, mommie?) A black "velvet" wall hanging provides the background for a snowy appliqued village. "Silent Night", it says underneath. The same velvet texture has been used for a tree skirt in spangled pastels, and for a Christmas holder which looks like a cuckoo clock. Santa is the cuckoo in this one.

Mother - daughter everglazed cotton aprons are white with colored Christmas appliques. For Christmas deliveries, provide yourself with a red quilted Christmas shopping bag, $4.95. The snowman glues on, so you can make the bag in a hurry.

Two oval hangings in that same velvety fabric, wish you "Happy New Year" and "Merry Christmas."

It's not only Humpty-Dumpty at The Fabric Shop on Chambers Street (see box), it's twin Jack and Jill dolls, too. These 19-inch dolls come out of Vogue for you to sew and stuff and dress for Christmas. On down the scale, are doll clothes patterns for baby dolls, and for Baby! dolls, those lithe creatures that wear tendor pants.

The Shop also has patterns in the alphabet, so that you can monogram towels, sweaters, handkerchiefs and so on.

For the trimmings, you have rick-racks in three sizes and all colors, bias trim in plaids, stripes, polka-dots and solids, felt poodles with sequined collars, and such candidates for applique as flowers, borders, ducks, easels with pompoms of paint, skaters and so forth.

Make a skating skirt of quilted corduroy lined with any fabric you like. Or make it of 72-inch felt in red, royal, gold, avocado, kelly or brown. All right, they have orange, too.

A memorable Christmas robe could be made from the quilted nylon in rosebuds, roses or flowers against pastel backgrounds which are repeated in the solid color backing. No facings needed if you sew with this.

Chiffon velvet for a Christmas dress, might be deep royal blue, wine red or black, supple enough to slip through a ring. There's velveteen, too, in brown, black, avocado, red or royal.

PLUG IT IN

Mono? Stereo? If you can't pay at least $500 for stereo, stick to mono. This advice comes from Audio Labs, 195 Nassau, where knowledge is part of the line of merchandise. The point is that fine mono is better than medium-good stereo.

Audio Labs' experts will visit your house, size up your space and build things to your requirements. Their work and the products they sell are backed with factory and personal guarantee, so you know you're all right.

In stereo, Harmon Kardon has an amplifier for $79.95, Wharfedale offers two speakers at about $100 each, and Garrard has a turntable for about $100. There you are.

A good FM tuner is the Harmon Kardon for $70, or the Scott for $115. The Scott is at home with either mono or stereo. The shop can also provide you with a complete FM system for $159—this is a two-part set-up with a

Christmas in August

There's something good and solid and reassuring about the One Big Family Christmas present, the investment in leisure or comfort that everybody appreciates as much in August as on Christmas morning.

Van Zandt's suggestion is the Philco Duomatic and automatic washing machine that does two loads in one (seven sheets!). The washer-dryer combination has a "rhythm spin" which speeds, then coasts to separate the clothes so that nothing gets tangled in mother's apron strings.

The Rug Mart says "Order a top-grain leather armchair right now." Comes in glowing ruby red with brass studs and costs $199.50. Or choose the vinyl one at $99.50 in a range of colors which may still be chosen in time for Christmas delivery.

University Store offers daddy something to look at while he's in that armchair. It's RCA color TV, $644.50, with a 90-day guarantee free service policy that takes care of labor and parts charges. You get black and white on the same set, of course.

jewel of a walnut-cased speaker, and a matching tuner.

Another maxim from Audio Labs: "Please tell housewives that stereo doesn't mean two of everything. Just speakers."

At the University Store, Fisher Stereo phonograph has been reduced as a Christmas present to you, from $299 to $199, which is pretty high fi.

For people who like to watch as well as listen, The University Store likes portable TV, "Portable" here means that the stands have wheels and can be pushed around. Remote control takes care of commercials. $259 will fill the bill. Van Zandt sets its portable sets on little wheeled carts so you can push TV into the kitchen while you bake Christmas cookies.

Nassau Interiors goes for big, with 23-inch sets in various cabinets to harmonize with your particular kind of philodendron. Drexel Furniture makes one line of cabinets, to give you an idea of quality. You get a full year's guarantee with sets from this store, by the way, and it applies to all tubes and parts. We like the idea of 3,600,000 cycles of picture information reproduced every second. Wonder it doesn't go into orbit.

Which reminds us of the Zenith Trans-oceanic, if not inter-stellar radio at the University Store. It can receive short wave anywhere in Europe or Asia for $139.95, which is certainly cheaper than a plane ticket. A transistorized set, smaller and lighter and easy to carry, is just as good, but costs more: $275.

If you'd rather take than watch, Mall Camera in the Princeton Shopping Center offers you anything Agfa makes, from $89.50 up. To say nothing of Leica, Bell and Howell and the rest. (Incidentally, this is the time to buy a Bolex Movie Camera—special discount prices.)

Polaroid's new 900 camera has an electric eye that eliminates all exposure guessing. You focus through the view-finder, which makes things even faster. Also at The University Store's camera department and in the camera department at Gallery 100.

Mall suggests, as a splendid starter for someone who's ready to develop his own, the Beseler Dream Darkroom kit; $195 for a collection of staples that would cost $287 separately. This kit includes a Beseler 23 c enlarger, 8 x 10 easel, negative carriers and developers, thermometers, trays, safe lights, fixers and goodness knows what else. "Everything but the space," Mall says.

At the University Store, the camera department takes the idea of color printing at home, and with this in mind, presents an Omega enlarger with color head. Also, they ask, "Why not sound on home movies?" Here are sound projectors by Eastman and Bolex. At $345, how can you ever forget how old Junior was when he first said "Grandma" on Christmas morning?

Gallery 100's photo shop thinks that Nikon's single lens reflex 35 mm. is just about the finest thing you can buy for Christmas. It has completely interchangeable lenses, pentaprisms, automatic diaphragms and a pricetag that will keep you shutter happy for a long time: $329, up.

The Alreiquip Superba 77 is Gallery 100's favorite projector because it's fully automatic with forward, reverse and the requisite number of push-buttons, to say nothing of an automatic timer. $119.95. The Argus "President" edges it in price at $169.95.

Rottiflex, Mamiya, and Heiland Pentax are twin and single-lens reflex cameras much in favor at this shop.

And Finally...We don't really mean to slight mother by leaving her to the end, but mothers always understand. We are offering her, for Christmas, a dishwasher from Nassau Service, produced by Kitchenmaid, Hotpoint or RCA. Ask the old gal which she wants.

Philco helps her along by sending to Van Zandt's a modern wringer washer, which is really a boon for women who have a water-shortage problem, or who prefer wringers to automatic washers. Van Zandt offers these machines at $99 to $249. One model even has a double tub.

And to keep daddy happy while mother is watching the dishwasher, there is a DeWalt Radial Arm Saw, probably purchased at Rorer's Hardware in Hopewell. There, you may examine saws that are $199, for the stripped-down model, or $249 for one that has the power brake, the gauge for rib-cutting, and the extension on the drop-leaf. Maybe it will wash the dishes, too.

COMMUNITY USES PARK

Marquand Is Popular. From January 1 to November 15 of this year, various groups have used Marquand Park 218 times for purposes ranging from Midget Baseball to serious botanical study.

Private groups, churches, schools or sports club may obtain the use of Marquand's fields and picnic facilities by calling the office of the Borough engineer, WA 4-3495, to make a reservation.

The principal user of the Marquand fields has been Witherspoon School, because there is not enough room on the Witherspoon playgrounds. Baseball games by Witherspoon teams accounted for 85 Marquand reservations. Other groups which have used the park include the lacrosse team of Miss Fine's, various Brownie and Cub groups, the Presbyterian Church of Philadelphia Youth Group, and a touring delegation from the Bronx Botanical Gardens.

KELLEHER TO SPEAK

Dr. Kelleher, who is also a professor in the art department at Princeton, has served as chief curator of art at the Los Angeles City Museum; director of the art museum at the University of Missouri; curator of collections at the Albright Art Gallery, Buffalo, and director of the European Art Gallery at Nelson-Atkin Museum, Kansas City, Missouri.

MUSIC In Princeton

DUO-PIANISTS PLAY

Appleton and Field Heard. It is an unfortunate fact that much of the finest chamber music is composed for combinations of instruments and performers which, due to the structure of the concert system of today, the public is often unable to hear. A good portion of this is found in the literature for two pianists (for one and two pianos).

The program given by duo-pianists Vera Appleton and Michael Field in McCarter Theatre Monday night on the Series II concert enabled us to hear some of the finest of the music written for this medium. Schumann's "Andante and Variations in E major" may not be one of this composer's major works, but it is a taste of real Schumann nonetheless. The Schubert "Fantasy in F minor," however, is one of the great pieces of the 19th century — in any medium, and is heard all too seldom. The Stravinsky "Concerto for Two Solo Pianos" and the Bartok "Sonata for Two Pianos and Percussion" are generally considered to be among these composers' finest works.

It was therefore a considerable disappointment that the quality of the performances did not match the quality of the program. It was not just that the pianists were lacking in precision, but that they were lacking in sensitivity and musicianship — this was what made the evening so frustrating for musicians and music lovers alike.

One was inclined to forgive during the Schumann, as the pianists struggled with overly brilliant pianos, but to hear one of the most profound pieces of music ever written — the Schubert Fantasy — mercilessly pulverized by four tense and pounding hands, seemingly insensitive to phrase structure, dynamics — to the very heart of the music — this was inexcusable. It can fairly be said that those in the audience who had not heard the Schubert Fantasy before have still not heard it.

The 20th century works on the program fared slightly better, partly because the conductor, Harold Ake, helped to coordinate the Bartok Sonata, and partly because Stravinsky's textures provide some built-in contrasts, not dependent upon the performers' control. These performances still left a great deal to be desired, however.

Although this reviewer is not thoroughly familiar with the Stravinsky Concerto, it was reported to him by a source he considers reliable that by the end the third movement the pianists were not even playing on the same page of the score, presumably because of memory slips and — or lack of coordination. While no such drastic failings were in evidence during the Bartok Sonata, the performance of this piece was peculiarly hesitant and featureless — it lacked the necessary vitality and sureness of rhythm, and the contrast of percussive and impressionistic textures essential to an exciting rendering of the work.

In all fairness it must be added that the intentions of the concert committee in bringing this music before Princeton audiences were of the finest. The finest intentions, however, can be thwarted by perfunctory and unmusical performances.

MRS. MCKINNEY TO PLAY

Pianist Presented. Mathilde McKinney, Princeton pianist and teacher, will give a piano recital Monday at 8 p.m. in the Playhouse on the campus of Westminster College. The public is invited.

Mrs. McKinney, visiting lecturer in piano at the College, has given numerous recitals in New York and has appeared with the Pittsburgh Symphony. A graduate of Oberlin and the Julliard Graduate School, she has studied also with Lhevinne and at the Salzburg Mozarteum. She taught at Wooster College and Douglass College before coming to Westminster.

MUSIC CLUB TO MEET

Date Changed. Members of the Princeton Music Club will meet next Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Thomas Huntington, 73 Alison Road. This is a different date from the one originally announced.

Ruth Bent will be the guest at Wednesday's meeting. Other performers will be Tiffin Harper, Fadlou Shehadi, David Porter, Vickie Pehta, Annetta Rosser, Ruth Plum and Louise Strunsky. The hostesses will be Rachel Armstrong and Edith Rechif.

BUSINESS In Princeton

BROWNING NOW IN AREA
New York Store Here. Browning Fifth Avenue will open a men's shop of approximately 6,000 square feet in the Lawrence Shopping Center on Route One, Lawrence Township. The store will open officially this Friday, as the seventh retail outlet of the Browning chain.

The new shop is part of the company's long-range expansion program to locate its shops in centers where there are other quality establishments. Charles M. Hilton, president of Browning Fifth Avenue, said that previous experience has indicated that the new shop may attract customers from a radius of 40 to 50 miles.

Clothing in the new shop will feature many exclusive fabrics from Huddersfield in England, Hawick in Scotland and the Shetland Islands. There will also be a special made-to-order department, with each garment hand-tailored in Browning's Linden plant.

Mr. Hilton said that the new shop "is part of Browning Fifth Avenue's long-range expansion program to locate units in centers comprising shops of high character in areas where there is a large segment of customers who want distinctive character and quality in clothing and furnishings." In addition to the Fifth Avenue Shop, other units are in Brooklyn, Long Island, Newark and Plainfield.

THEY'RE READY TO BUY Christmas Checks Mailed.
Princeton's two banks announced this week that they have mailed more than 3,750 Christmas Club checks to families in the Princeton area. The First National Bank sent out 2,348, Princeton Bank and Trust mailed more than 1,400.

The total sum involved is almost $420,000. Princeton Bank and Trust sent out more than $166,000 and the First National Bank mailed $252,654.

"This considerable sum will be largely spent among the Princeton merchants during the next few weeks," a spokesman for one bank pointed out. The sum is a record one for the First National Bank. Christmas Clubs for 1961 are now open at both banks.

TRUST MAN NAMED

By Princeton Bank and Trust. Johannes W. Termeulen has joined the Trust Division of Princeton Bank and Trust Company, according to an announcement from George R. Cook, III, president of the bank.

Mr. Termeulen, who left The Chase Manhattan Bank to accept the appointment, was with the Nederlandsche Handels-Maatschappij in Amsterdam for seven years. During World War II he served as a combat pilot with the Dutch Air Force.

"Rapid growth of our Trust Division necessitates continuing additions of experienced personnel," Mr. Cook said. He stressed the bank's intention of maintaining "the personalized service we have furnished our customers for many years."

DIRECTOR JOINS STAFF

Of "On Film," Bert Spielvogel has joined the staff of On Film, Inc. as Director of Cinematography. In this position, he will supervise all camera work, including animation and aerial image projector effects, and will work with the film research and design department.

Mr. Spielvogel, who formerly operated a motion picture and advertising photo studio in Washington, D.C., has worked for On Film before. His previous credits include the prize-winning "The New Girl," "Alice in Washington," "From the Ground Up" and "In the Suburbs."

University Faculty Defended. To The Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

Only 79 words sufficed another of your readers, Mrs. Helen Burd Hunt, for explaining to her own, though NOT this correspondent's, evident complete satisfaction, just how three quarters of Princeton University's Faculty manages to exist.

Her letter ("Mailbox" Nov. 13-19) said that this not inconsiderable percentage of Princeton's scholars and teachers, "theorists who teach" (and who) "are for the Democratic ideals" (Mrs. H.'s capital "D", not mine) "depend for their very livelihood upon people of Republican ideals. . .". This reader gathered that she perhaps views as ingrates those Faculty members who espouse either big "D." or little "d." democratic ideals while the Republican hand feeds, clothes and shelters them.

Differing completely with this diagnosis I have been awaiting hopefully the appearance in your columns of an epistolary riposte. Any member of the Faculty could almost certainly have refuted these allegations in more articulate and brief fashion than can one who has his brain bled white daily — save on holidays — from "earning a living and (hopefully) developing initiative" in a metropolitan commercial bank.

As no rebuttal has come forth, however, one concludes that those Faculty members who read Mrs. Hunt are so used to the preposterous old saw about the doing by "those who can" and the teaching by "those who can't" as well as by equally timeworn images of teachers dwelling in pinkish alabaster towers that they treated the item with academic disdain. Perhaps 'twere better thus.

However, at the risk of annihilating an already moribund chivalry, I feel impelled, both as the quondam child of a Princeton professor and as one privileged to spend four highly interesting years at Princeton concentrating on languages, to bespeak a little more tolerance from Mrs. Hunt than was implied in her letter. After all, won't she grant that the Democratic Party even now retains some elements of the social-cum-political philosophy of Jefferson, Wilson, Harry Byrd and others less starry-eyed than "That Man in the White House"; and won't she admit, for example, that some "initiative" — developed Heaven knows where — was required and manifested in the concept and subsequent successful launching of the Woodrow Wilson Fellowship Program; and, finally, does this lady honestly believe that the sometime College of New Jersey derives its entire endowment, tuition and Annual Giving income from members of ONLY one of the great political parties of our nation? If this be her sincere credo, one can only murmur, "Eheu, cheu; lugete, lugete, Veneres, Cupidinesque...."

Voters' "Apathy" Debated.

To The Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

This is the season when everyone chides the American voter for being apathetic and not doing his duty on election day. In particular one of the sub-heads on your election day story was "Vote Here Relatively Light." However, "Things are seldom what they seem" and I submit that this is no exception.

I am somewhat familiar with the situation in District 7 in the Township, having worked in the polling place of election day, and having done some canvassing previously. Of the 398 registered voters, 342 voted at the polling place as you correctly quoted.

If this were the whole story it would mean that only 85.9 percent of the registered voters went to the polls. When you consider that our district had the highest turnout, computed this way, there would be some justification for considering that the voters were apathetic if no other information were available.

In addition to those that went to the polls, 17 voted by absentee ballot. To the best of our knowledge 32 people, while officially registered, were in fact ineligible. Some had died most of them had moved out of the county. (You do not lose your eligibility by any move within the county if the election board has the address at which you were living 40 days before the election).

Of the remainder, some were out of town, some were ill, and some we have no information on. These people did not need reminders to vote on election day but reminders to get an absentee ballot a week before.

In conclusion, I would say that we had a heavy turnout of more than 97 percent of our registered and eligible voters. I believe the vote was equally heavy in the other districts.

JOHN M. GREENE
Cherry Valley Rd.

Editor's Note: Mr. Greene's point that the eligible rolls list a number of registered voters who have either moved away or died is quite right. Fact remains, however, that Princeton's turnout at the polls on November 8 was markedly lower than that of several nearby municipalities, despite the fine turnout in Township District 7 and one or two others here.

Sportswriter Slanted?

To The Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

I wonder just what game your sports reporter saw played in New Haven November 12. Certainly it could not have been the same event witnessed by some 62,000 at the Bowl and reported in such diverse journals as the "New Yorker" and "Sports Illustrated," both of which appeared the same day as did TOWN TOPICS.

To ascribe Princeton's defeat in the entire account, save only the last paragraph, to its own mistakes, to fail to recognize the fact of a Yale team as awesome as Princeton's a decade ago — such reporting is not only unjust to the ability of the best Ivy League team (come what may at Cambridge), it grossly and unfairly reflects on Princeton's own power. Against that particular Yale team on that particular Saturday it was a performance worthy of positive tribute to be able to score three times.

ENGAR A. FURNISS, JR.
95 Cedar Lane

Editor's Note: A check with TOWN TOPICS' sportswriter brought insistence on his part that he had been in the Yale Bowl on Saturday, November 12. He still thinks: (1) that from a Princeton point of view, the primary story of the game is the series of flagrant mistakes Princeton made; (2) that Yale this year is far and away the best team in the Ivy League; (3) that Princeton's 1950 team could have handled Yale's 1960 team with comparative ease.

Report from THE MAYOR

Tell It To The Mayor? A strep throat, a high temperature and doctor's orders put the Mayor to bed just before last week's scheduled open house at Borough Hall and caused the first unscheduled absence from this weekly series. Pinchhitting on Friday evening, to the obvious surprise of visitors and telephone callers, was the Mayor's wife. Her notes on citizens' problems, questions and views will be acted on as soon as penicillin permits.

On The Schedule. This week's "Tell It to the Mayor!" session was scheduled for Wednesday, November 23, from 7 to 10 p.m. at Borough Hall because of the holiday weekend. Next week's open house will be held from 7 to 10 p.m. on Friday, December 2. No appointment is ever necessary for these informal meetings.

A Lion in Tigertown?

Sarah, the Mayor's eight-year old daughter, became a staunch friend of M. Pinto, who heads the delegation to the United Nations from the African Republic of Dahomey. M. Pinto and Sarah had dinner together at St. Paul's School on the occasion of the UN dinner sponsored by the Knights of Columbus and the Columbiettes during UN week. Since then, they have been corresponding and this week brought news from M. Pinto that he was having a lion sent by plane to Princeton as a token of friendship.

A lion at the home of the Mayor of Tigertown? One could only think of the title of the UN week brochure published by our citizens' committee: "This is a beginning!"

With Seven Mayors. With a panel of seven other Mayors of small New Jersey municipalities, Princeton's Mayor enjoyed chairing an afternoon-long session at the League of Municipalities 45th annual conference in Atlantic City on Wednesday. In a meeting with no speeches—a rarity in itself with so many elected officials—the mayors of four other boroughs—Hillsdale, Sayreville, Woodbine and River Edge—joined with the chief executives of the towns of Morristown and Phillipsburg and the township of Moorestown in answering a barrage of questions from a large audience of fellow mayors and members of governing bodies.

The subjects ranged from salaries to equipment and from swimming pools to supermarket carts left in streets and to several dozen other subjects of municipal concern. The controversial subject of "moonlighting" as it applies to police personnel was a major item of interest.

A Full Week. In a busy Princeton week there were many highlights. Special commendation should go to all those who participated in the stirring memorial concert of the Princeton Symphony and the Westminster Choir. It was a superb evening of great music dedicated to the memory of Princeton's beloved Dr. Charles R. Erdman, Sr.

On Thursday, Princeton was host to a statewide conference on disarmament. Mr. Frank Begley, an American serving with distinction in the security section of the UN Secretariat, was impressive in his frank appraisal of mankind's position in today's world. He summed up his belief in the need for world-wide emphasis on a better life in a more peaceful world by the brief but thought-provoking statement: "There is no future for any of us, unless there is a decent future for all of us."

Thanksgiving. Princeton joins the rest of America this week in the Traditional Thanksgiving holiday. This is a prayerful time and we in Princeton especially have so much to be thankful for.

will also stop at the United Nations Building, where it will meet the Columbian government representative, Mrs. Ponce de Leon.

It will leave the "Y" Building on Avalon Place at 9 and return at 4. Reservations for the trip may be made by calling the YMCA.

A New Year's Party is also planned for this group on December 31.

CANDY SALE PLANNED

For World Service Benefit. The Princeton YMCA World Service Candy Sale will begin on Saturday, it was announced by the World Service representative, Gerald Skibbins. All YMCA club members have been asked to participate in this educational and fund-raising project.

In addition to sales by club members, the candy mints will be offered at the YMCA desk on Avalon Place and on Nassau Street on December 3 and 10 from 9 to 12.

CAMPOUT SCHEDULED

At Y Camp In Blairstown. Members of the Princeton YMCA Indian Guides, Adventure Clubs and Third Grades will attend a father and son campout at the Y Camp in Blairstown on December 3 and 4.

All members of the three groups and any other father and son interested in the Indian Guide program are welcome to sign up for the weekend. The groups will leave the Y Building on Avalon Place December 3 at 10 in the morning and return the following afternoon between 3:30 and 4.

LODGE TO INSTALL

New Officers, Friday. New officers of Thistle Lodge 220, Daughters of Scotia, will be installed at a meeting on Friday at 7 in Odd Fellows Hall, 23½ Witherspoon Street.

The officers are Mrs. Elizabeth McLean, chief daughter; Mrs. Mary Young, recording secretary; Mrs. Sarah Forsyth, financial secretary; Miss Martha Wood, inside guard; and Mrs. Helen Barry, outside guard. Mrs. Margaret Lamb, grand deputy, and members of Heather Hill Lodge 65 of Morristown will conduct the installation ceremony.

TO SELL FOR SCHOLARSHIP

Douglass Alumnae Drive. Alumnae of Douglass College who live in the Princeton area have launched their annual pecan-nut sale. Proceeds from this sale are used each year for a scholarship which is awarded to a girl from the area.

The nuts sell for $2 a pound and may be ordered by calling Miss Emily Post, WA 4-0477, or any Douglass alumna.

EIGHT AT CONVENTION

Representing PHS. Eight members of the student council of Princeton High School attended the annual convention of the New Jersey Association of High School Councils, held at Rutgers University.

They were John Bensinger, Peter Nulty, Michael Marston, Carla Fiabane, Wilhelmina Reaser, Fred Miller, Sherry Ridgeway and Michael O'Kane. Richard Borger and J. Alfred Seitz accompanied the students. The convention was attended by more than 2,000 students from 250 New Jersey schools.

Are you using your settlement options?

At one time life insurance policyowners had no option. Policy proceeds were paid in cash—in one lump sum. Beneficiaries faced all the dangers and problems that go with managing a large sum of money.

Today most life insurance policies have "built-in" income options that will give your beneficiary a continuous income without investment worries. For example—you can arrange with your life insurance company to pay a monthly income for 10 years, 15 years or for a lifetime.

The Man from Manufacturers can show you how settlement options can increase your policy benefits as much as 25% without increasing premiums. Give him a call today for more information on this valuable life insurance "extra".

SPORTS In Princeton

MEMORIES STIRRED

Of Fine 1949 Finish. When John MacMurray caught the pass that beat Dartmouth for Princeton in Palmer Stadium Saturday, the 7-0 triumph took on fascinating similarity to a dramatic game the Tigers had won from the same opponent 11 years ago.

In that 19-13 victory, the Orange and Black also scored a touchdown in the final minute, on the identical play that saw Hugh Scott connect accurately on a 23-yard pass to MacMurray. In 1949, the tailback was sophomore Dick Kazmaier and the wingback senior George Sella. In each instance, the ends decoyed the secondary to left and right while the receiver cut diagonally cross the center to snare the vital aerial untouched.

Similarity did not stop there. As the 1949 Tigers had, last Saturday's Princetonians staged a stirring goal-line stand that made eventual victory stand up. In each case, Dartmouth had a first down on the one-yard line; in each case, Princeton dug in to take possession four plays later.

The triumph brought the 1960 season to an extremely successful finish, one that virtually no one considered possible last September. As far back as last spring, the directors of sports information at the eight Ivy colleges agreed in a poll that Princeton was the likely sixth-place inhabitant.

Break-Even Ability Doubled. Pessimism over the Tigers' chances was generally wide-

Winter Sports Ahead

Princeton's winter sports schedule for the 1960-61 season will open at home on Saturday, December 3, when Cappon's basketball team plays host to Lafayette in Dillon Gymnasium.

The Tiger quintet, defending champion in the Ivy League, will meet Temple and Navy on Tuesday and Friday of the following week before taking to the road. After the Navy game, Princeton will be absent from Dillon Gym for a month, meeting Brown in its first home Ivy game on January 13.

Coach Norm Wood's hockey team will face Colgate at Hamilton, N.Y. in its opener Friday December 2. A game against Army at West Point will follow the next afternoon, with Middlebury on December 7 and Boston University December 10 the only home games before Christmas.

spread: In its "Question of the Week" just before the season began, TOWN TOPICS found that a clear majority of a score of football fans interviewed felt Princeton would win less than half of its nine games. It was particularly refreshing that the defeatist attitude did not make itself felt among the players, whose spirit at Blairstown was one of the high points of pre-season practice.

The 13-8 defeat at the hands of Rutgers, in which the Scarlet came from behind as a result of poor pass defense, did nothing to encourage the outlook for Tigers. Off Columbia's 37-0 shellacking of Brown, the Lions actually came into their game against Princeton favored to win.

The 49-0 drubbing that Dick Colman's eleven handed the New Yorkers followed in heart-warming fashion, as did five more consecutive victories over Penn. Colgate, Cornell, Brown and Harvard. A couple (Cornell and Harvard) were too close for comfort as points after touchdown told the difference, but each link in the chain was doubly welcome in view of the complete contrast to what had been expected.

No one could contest Yale's clear-cut superiority as the Elis rolled to the first 7-0 mark compiled by an Ivy team since the league became formal five seasons ago. But the 6-1 record Princeton recorded is as good as any that produced a championship in other years, and it left the Tigers head and shoulders over the rest of the circuit. Dartmouth and Harvard, deadlocked at 4-3 for third, were their closest pursuers.

Final Not Polished. The last game of the season was as interesting as any close contest can be, but it was pockmarked by steady errors on both sides. Princeton continued its tendency to fumble, losing the ball on two occasions; Dartmouth dropped the ball five times for fumbles and on several other occasions, Indian receivers let passes slip away from them after the ball had been accurately thrown, by quarterback Jack Kinderdine.

It was nonetheless a dramatic ball game for Princetonians because victory held so much in store: the first triumph over Dartmouth since 1967; possession alone of the runner-up spot in the Ivy standings—instead of a tie with the Green; and a completely satisfying 7-2 mark rather than a less appealing 6-3 finish.

The triumph was achieved after several penetrations deep into Dartmouth territory, including one that had been stopped a yard away from the end zone when tailback Jack Sullivan was held on a thrust off tackle. It began on the Princeton 23 with a shade over four minutes left on the clock, and it ended with just 53 seconds to go.

Sullivan ran three plays that were good for a total of 27 yards and took the ball just across midfield. Scott came in to replace him, and his slashing, A-for-Effort thrusts took the ball to the visitors' 23 in five carries.

Now time was running out quickly, and the clock would not permit the Tigers to remain on the ground. Scott's perfect pitch to MacMurray followed, the Tiger wingback racing into the end zone untouched. Dave Gouldin's placement made it 7-0: the losers had time for seven passes but only two were complete and the game ended with the ball on Princeton's 32-yard line.

It was a fitting finale, too, for the Hugh Scott Fan Club, which has had a constantly growing membership in town ever since —Continued on Page 25

● Set a total offense record in Ivy play with 934 yards, breaking the mark of 862 credited to Frank Finney of Brown in 1958;

● Compiled a nine-game total of 1127 yards, tops for a Princeton back since Dick Kazmaler;

● Went down into history as the best second-string back the Tigers have ever had. Scotty ran virtually all season with the second team, making his accomplishments all the more unusual. This week, the Associated Press named him to its all-Ivy backfield, an honor that is sure to be duplicated when the official all-Ivy eleven (chosen by the coaches) is published next week.

FOOTBALL P's AWARDED

To 24 PHS Seniors. Joe Jingoli, head football coach at Princeton High School, has awarded football P's to 24 seniors and 15 other members of the squad.

Seniors receiving letters include co-captains of this year's Little Tiger eleven, Russ Perone and Dave Smith, and 22 others: Lamont Fletcher, Norm Gaskins, John Dalle Pezze, Harvey Clark, Bill Wilson, Joe Beachell, Robert Chibbaro, Allen Wood, Howard Gould, Travis Webber, Miles Truesdell, Toivo Piho, Russ Eldridge, Sigurd Peterson, Joel Knolmeyer, Pete Cossman, Ernie Hunt, Ken Lippman, James Jones, Erik Bach and managers Carl Robbins and Marty Lombardo.

Jingoli feels that these 15 returning lettermen will give him a good nucleus to work with next year. "Right now, I'd say we'll have an average squad reporting for play next fall. We'll have mostly seniors on the team but that is the situation that exists practically every year," he said.

The PHS coach indicated that Fisher, Pemberton, Zuber and Salter would provide a good backfield nucleus and that coaches Dick Wood and Jerry Groniger were hopeful of building a good line around the returning lettermen. This year, only 11 letter

WE Congratulate

JOHN HENRICH
Princeton Quarterback

There are many reasons, both tangible and intangible, for the unexpected success of Princeton's 1960 football team. A big one — and the adjective is used advisedly — is the rapid development at quarterback of sophomore John Henrich, 203 pounds of solid blocking ability.

If the Tigers had defensive difficulties a good part of the seasons (despite shutouts of Columbia, Penn and Dartmouth), a crunching ground game erased much of their problems. Ability to run steadily not only meant ability to play possession ball but to win high-scoring games. It was largely the running attack that kept Princeton among the highest scoring teams in the nation during the bulk of the season.

In common with a handful of sophomores over the years — almost never more than two a season — Henrich had his starting berth nailed down before the Tigers broke camp at Blairstown. While it is true that there was no solid hold-over from the 1959 squad for him to beat out, there was sufficient ability so that he had to have marked potential to win the job as a sophomore.

It was the new double wing formation which threw so much blocking power in front of the tailback that made the Princeton running attack the strongest it has been in a decade. It was Henrich (and Captain Don Kornrumpf) who were responsible for most of the scythe-like blocking that helped Hugh Scott and Jack Sullivan roll to such impressive yardage.

Henrich's field generalship has likewise been of high calibre throughout the season, the Tiger attack rarely bogging down because basic strategy was in error. This is a major accomplishment for a sophomore, traceable in part to the fact that Henrich had played single wing football at the Nichols School in Buffalo before coming to Princeton.

In the post-war era, only two other quarterbacks have won the starting assignment as sophomores. They are George Chandler and Jack Sapoch, and both of their careers were marked by above-average football teams at Princeton. Months before the 1961 season begins, it is a pleasant realization to know that John Henrich is solidly on his way toward becoming a three-year quarterback.

than this." Spoiling Hun's finale last year with a 7-0 victory, Delbarton did it again, this time with a 23-6 defeat of the Red and Black. Before the game was a minute old, visitor Delbarton had eight points. After Hun's Al Landis had fumbled away the opening kick-off, Dick Marinaro hit Frank McGuire in the end zone for Delbarton's first six-pointer and then heaved to Len Coti for two more.

Hun took the return kick-off and marched down field in a sustained drive for its only score. Gary Grover and Landis did most of the gaining with Landis going over for the TD. Hun failed to knot the score when Landis was stopped short of the goal line on the PAT attempt.

A pass interference penalty led to the victors' second tally in the second quarter. With a first down inside Hun's five-yard line, the visitors, after three running plays, were unable to push the ball over. Taking to the air on last down, Delbarton's aerial was broken up by an over eager Hun defender who tackled the intended receiver before he could catch the ball. On the following play, Delbarton scored.

The losers almost tied it up in the same quarter when Landis dashed 60 yards from scrimmage but the touchdown was nullified by an infraction. That was as close as Hun came. In the third quarter, Delbarton picked up another TD on a two-yard plunge by Marinaro who had set up the score with his successful passing.

Eleven Play Last Game. Eleven Hun seniors have played their last game. They are Robert Kaplan, Bart Hawley, Ken Siegle, Harland Johnson, Jose Cahera, John Stewart, Jay Maynell and co-captain Dave Savidge, all linemen. Backfield men include co-captain Al Landis, Tom Johnson and Rod Vetterline.

Coach Waterman will have a better than average nucleus to work with next fall. Starting halfbacks Gary Grover and Bob Kay and quarterback Tim Walsh will return, as will veteran backs Doug Kerr and Sandy Blain. Linemen who will be back include Pete and Paul Savidge, Pete Spiller, Howard Taylor and Bob Wahley. The primary problem facing Waterman will be inexperience at the end and tackle positions.

BOWLING NOTES

Walker Gordon had its lead cut to four games

Time is growing short and soon the little man with the heavy boots will come clambering down the chimney and sprinkle soot all over the living room. But we'll shrug our shoulders and say "Cheers" . . . A toast to holiday time. Now soot can make a man mighty thirsty . . . so this year let's leave him a sparkling bottle of KERNS GINGER ALE or KERNS CLUB SODA. And, if you've a mind to leave him something to warm him against the cold . . . set up a bottle of BUCANERO SCOTCH WHISKY, imported and bottled exclusively for KERNS. BUCANERO costs just a little bit more than most Scotches, but the quality of its flavor can't be beat. Santa will appreciate every drop either from the CERAMIC FLAGON or the GLASS DECANTER and he'll enjoy serving it to his special friends. Ask your dealer today for KERNS GINGER ALE or CLUB SODA and place your order for BUCANERO SCOTCH WHISKY too. Santa will remember you all the year 'round. Call WA 4-2468, 11-17-51

Force of habit can bring strange results. Through habit we often accept less than the best rather than try something new. Perhaps by habit you continue to buy the same GINGER ALE and CLUB SODA that you've used for years. You'd be surprised and delighted if you'd try KERNS PALE DRY GINGER ALE and KERNS SPARKLING CLUB SODA. You'd find that Kerns has in these two mixers beverages of superlative quality. KERNS CLUB SODA and KERNS GINGER ALE will hold their sparkling carbonation long after other mixers have gone flat. Try these two KERNS products. You'll like the clean taste of KERNS GINGER ALE; you'll like the mineral spring character of KERNS SPARKLING WATER. Ask your dealer for KERNS, by the case or by the bottle. You'll like the saving in price, too. Call WA 4-0836.

WE NOMINATE

Eric Frederick Goldman, one of this country's brilliant and liberal) by asking Princeton upperclassmen liant historians and in his 18th year as a Princetonian, who this week—in the face of the threatened television strike—quietly observes the first anniversary of his appointment as moderator of "Open Mind", the television industry's oldest continuing panel-type program. The 45-year old Goldman, an exceptional lecturer and an author with capacity for making the past come to life, is succeeding where others are failing in that he and his associates are using so-called "prime commercial time" to bring listening-audiences to grips with the basic issues of our era.

A year ago, when Goldman, a native of Washington, D.C., took over "Open Mind" the show was a grab-bag, filling a Sunday half-hour on the National Broadcasting Company's New York and Boston outlets. This fall it has been jumped to a full Sunday hour (4-to-5:00 p.m.) and given coast-to-coast coverage, with radio rebroadcasting at midnight and the Voice of America periodically beaming overseas. And at no time has Goldman resorted to intellectual pap. Last Sunday it was a long-winded discussion of "The Living Constitution: Judicial Review"; this weekend it will revolve about "Church and State".

To the "new medium" of television Goldman has brought the insights and techniques which have become hallmarks of his teaching and writing. His far-reaching knowledge of matters historical, refreshed by research and reading, enables him to pinpoint individual points of view and to flick questions which goad panels of experts into action. In much the same way, in the winter of 1959, he struck sparks (both conservation of the United States in the light of the demands of the space age.

Goldman, whose "Crucial Decade: America 1945-1955" will be issued in a revamped paperback edition next February under the general title of "The Crucial Decade and After", is one of the few articulate American historians. Meriting long memory are such meaningful phrases as "the malevolent self-righteousness of the Russians", or "the equilibrium of a vague moderation", or his from-the-hip description of Governor Adlai E. Stevenson in 1952, as "a smallish man advancing in the hips and retreating at the hairline."

Goldman, whose major published works include the winner in 1953 of the Bancroft Prize, "Rendezvous with Destiny, A History of Modern American Reform", is a former contributing editor of "Time" Magazine, a member in 1960-61 of the National Book Award Committee and a driving-force in the The Fund for The Republic's three-year study of "Mass Media in The Free Society". He took his advanced degrees at Johns Hopkins without benefit of an undergraduate diploma, taught for seven years at Hopkins and came to Princeton in 1942, some four years before co-authoring a high school textbook which has now sold well over 500,000 copies.

For his calm and reasonable approach to the phenomena which are America; for his "rare ability to communicate to others his own desire to pursue truth"; for his achievements as a teacher in three dimensions—the classroom, the printed page and television; he is Town Topics' nominee as
